UEFA EURO 2016™

FRANCE
This research is based on the Official Squad Lists published by UEFA on the 1st of June 2016. The European Club Association has endeavoured to keep the information up to date, but it makes no representations or warranties of any kind, expressed or implied, about the completeness, accuracy and reliability with respect to this information. The aim of this research is purely informative. Last Update: 7th of June 2016
MESSAGE FROM THE ECA GENERAL SECRETARY

Dear friends of football,

Following an exciting 2015/16 club football season culminating in a thrilling UEFA Champions League final in Milan, we are ready to focus on the next footballing highlight of 2016: the UEFA EURO to be held in France. This year’s tournament is the first one that sees 24 nations participating, bringing the total number of players to 552.

As it has become a tradition for every major national team tournament, we are pleased to provide you with yet another ECA Player Release Analysis. Our research aims at showcasing the clubs involved in releasing players to all major national team competitions including, but not limited to, the FIFA World Cup and the UEFA EURO. Following the ECA Player Release Analyses in 2008 and 2012, this new report is the third one specifically devoted to the UEFA EURO tournament.

As we all know, clubs are an important cornerstone of the football pyramid. They invest in the development of the players – both on and off the pitch – helping them to become stars and role models that inspire football fans from across the world. Without the dedicated work and investments of clubs around the globe, the quality and delivery of our competitions would not be the same. Clubs are at the basis of what drives our passion for the sport.

To give you a glimpse of the key facts and figures of this year’s report: the 552 players participating in the UEFA EURO 2016 in France are registered with 215 different clubs representing no less than 41 domestic leagues. Obviously, it does not come as a surprise that the vast majority of these players, a total of 542 players (98.2%), are registered with European clubs. Regardless, I am convinced that you will find it interesting to find out the answers to questions such as “How many players are registered with clubs in England?” or “Which clubs released most players overall?”.

I take the opportunity to point out that, thanks to the 2012 ECA-UEFA Memorandum of Understanding, clubs are entitled to the amount of €150m from the UEFA EURO 2016 revenues as recognition for their significant contribution to the success of the tournament. The distribution mechanism will be identical to the one applied for the UEFA EURO 2012, where 575 clubs benefited from the total amount of €100m. The calculations to define the final amounts for all clubs will be finalised and communicated after the tournament.

I wish you an interesting read and, most importantly, an enjoyable and safe UEFA EURO tournament in France!

Best regards,

Michele Centenaro

ECA General Secretary
